

King's College London

Psychology & Neuroscience of Mental Health MSc

Online study | MSc, PG Dip and PG Cert routes

PROGRAMME OVERVIEW

Understand the psychological and neuroscientific foundations of mental health, bringing together biological, psychological and social perspectives.

STUDY AREAS

- Psychological foundations of mental health
- Neuroscience and mechanisms of brain and behaviour
- Mental health across development and the lifespan
- Research methods and critical appraisal of evidence

ENTRY & STUDY ARRANGEMENTS

The official online programme offers MSc, PG Dip and PG Cert routes. Check the target award, its entry requirements and the latest delivery arrangements before applying.

The university states that this online course has not sought British Psychological Society (BPS) accreditation. It must not be presented as a guarantee of counselling or clinical practice eligibility. Professional uses require independent confirmation.

FEES & NEXT STEPS

Ask UKEC to confirm current tuition, currency, payment stages, additional costs and intake dates in writing. Admission is decided by the university.

UKEC programme information guide - not an official university prospectus.

Translated from the UKEC source summary reviewed on 11 October 2026.

admissions@ukec.hk | WhatsApp +852 6215 9849 | ukec.hk/en/

Official course source:

<https://www.kcl.ac.uk/study/postgraduate-taught/courses/psychology-and-neuroscience-of-mental-health-mscpgdippgcert>